

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
A Note on Abbreviations and Citations	xi
Prologue	1
Chapter 1
Transmutations of Desire	11
Qing (Desire) and Religions	11
Origin of Desire: Transvaluation of Value	19
The yin and yang , and the Dao	31
Between xing (Nature) and qing (Feeling/Desire)	32
The Ultimate Expression of qing	43
The Full Course of Desire:
The End of qing , or Its Transmutation	45
Coda	53
Chapter 2
Mudan ting: The Theater of the Mind	59
The Meaning of qing in Tang Xianzu	60
Immateriality and the Theater of the Mind	62
Indestructibility of Pleasing Forms and Desire
( Seqing nanhuai )	69
Pursuing the Dream: The Aftermath and Consequence	82
The Self-Portrait	85
Death and Resurrection	89
Transcending qing	90

Chapter 3
Between Union and Separation: Xixiang ji and the Tragic	101
“Meng youchun” (Dreaming of a Spring Excursion)	101
“Yingying zhuan” (Yingying’s Story)	108
Xixiang ji ( The Western Wing )	115
Ming Commentary Traditions on Xixiang ji	120
Jing Shengtan’s Recension: An Anatomy of qing	122
The Tragic: Form and Vision	125
The Imperfect World: Feng Menglong’s Vision of the Tragic	128
Jin Shengtan’s Tragic Vision	131
Coda	143
Chapter 4
Changsheng dian: Qing, Death, and Redemption	147
Hong Sheng’s Purist Revision of the Yang Yuhuan Saga	147
Qing : Between Life and Death	151
From Life to Death	154
Qing ’s Repentance ( qinghui ) and the Remedy of Regrets ( buhen )	159
Ambiguities of qing	164
Chapter 5
Taohua shan: The Inadequacy of qing and the Metaphysical Solution Revisited	169
Qing and Exterior Values	169
The Inadequacy of qing	173
The Peach Blossom Fan	176
Metaphysical Solution Revisited	180
Concluding Remarks	181

Chapter 6
Jiang Shiquan and Xu Xi:
Justifications of qing and the Metaphysical Frame	183
After Taohua shan : Jiang Shiquan on Tang Xianzu	183
“Dreams” Reenacted	190
Yu Ergu as the Ideal Reader and the Female Readership of Mudan ting	194
Convergence of Dreams	199
Metaphysical Solutions: Subject and Structure	207
Xu Xi: Life, Desire, and Life-Writing— By Way of Conclusion	212
Chapter 7
Honglou meng: Qing and Visions of the Tragic	217
Honglou meng and the Late Ming Legacy	217
The Imperfect World and the Cosmic Dimension of qing : Significance of the Nüwa Myth	222
Yiyin (Lust of Mind) and chi (Folly)	225
Du Liniang and Jia Baoyu, Fidelity and Promiscuity: Qing Independent of Its Objects	232
Lin Daiyu and Jia Baoyu: The Sense of the Tragic	234
Two Visions of the Tragic: The 80-Chapter and 120-Chapter Versions	247
Tensions between qing and Its Opposite: The Metaphysics and Dialectics of kong , se , and qing Revisited	250
Epilogue: Qing and Talents for qing Writing	255
Bibliography	265
Index	293